

Would you like to work with Remote Buying (Kopen Op Afstand, KOA) at a location within Royal FloraHolland, without any disruptions but with a fast, stable and reliable network connection? Then choose for an MPN-KOA connection via the Market Place Network (MPN).

MPN-KOA, your direct connection to the clocks

MPN-KOA has been designed especially to connect to all Royal FloraHolland clocks using a KOA-PC. It's a direct connection using glass fibre cable.

This makes it much faster, more stable and more reliable than the internet. Since the network is only used for KOA, there are no disruptions due to external influences.

How does it work?

The Market Place Network has multiple glass fibre connections, backed up by a redundant network. If a disruption should occur – however unlikely – then all connected customers are automatically switched to the redundant connection

The Market Place Network is vital to the Royal FloraHolland buying and auction process. If a disruption occurs, despite all the protective measures, if necessary the auction process will be halted to first fix the problem. KOA buyers will never have this kind of security with regular internet providers.

What does it cost?

Each connection requires a subscription. The costs of a standard 5 Mb MPN-KOA subscription are € 54,20 a month. A KOA-PC requires a capacity of 1 Mb, so this subscription lets you buy using 5 KOA-PCs at once. If you wish to work with more KOA-PCs, then every 1 Mb capacity expansion costs € 10,84 a month. There are also one-off MPN connection costs.

What are the MPN connection costs?

A glass fibre connection (including network equipment) costs € 1.355,00.

If a glass fibre connection is present, then the costs for the network equipment come to € 596,00. If both are present, then the connection fee is € 161,00.
